The U.S. government imposes a flat rate Medicare tax of 2.9 percent on all wages received by employees, as well as on business or farming income earned by self-employed individuals. But there are a few variations of this tax depending on the sources of your income and other factors.

The 3 Medicare Taxes: What They Are and How They Work

The Tax Relief for Americans Act of 2013, signed into law on January 2, 2013, included a provision to increase the employee portion of Medicare taxes for higher-income individuals, both employees and self-employed business owners. The additional tax rate is 0.9% of employee income.
